

Disability Studies Minor Application for Admission

UCLA Division of Undergraduate Education, College of Letters & Science

The Disability Studies minor will be of interest to students from many different academic areas. Those interested in professions in teaching, social work, public health, nursing, medicine, architecture, and law may have a special interest in the applying their study to focusing on the needs of disabled populations. Students interested in interdisciplinary academic work will find rich avenues of new scholarship in fields throughout the arts, humanities, social sciences, and sciences.

Students interested in the minor are strongly encouraged to review the program web site (disabilitystudies.ucla.edu) and speak with the minor's academic advisor. In order to be accepted into the minor, students must:

- have a cumulative GPA of 2.7 or better
- submit a written statement describing how disability studies relates to your academic interests or career goals (no longer than two pages, single spaced)
- complete this application for admission

Your application packet can be submitted at any time to the following office:
